

An Apple A Day Keeps The Frumpy Away
11 | 6 | 2011 by Jenica Rodriguez

In an era of designer, low rise jeans and cut down to there tops, what is a modest, style starved gal to do? The answer is Shabby Apple. Offering elegant, vintage inspired dresses, tops and skirts; Shabby Apple offers a reprieve from overtly sexy clothes.

Shabby Apple collaborates with independent designers with their Emerging Designers program, which offers up and coming designers an opportunity to reach a wide range of customers who are seeking truly unique pieces. Inspired by past eras and infused with a fun, contemporary kick, Shabby Apple is a must see website for fashionistas. In Addition, the fact that they donate 5% of their sales to Unitus, a not for profit organization that helps woman at the bottom of the economic pyramid gain their financial independence, makes Shabby Apple a must know about company in regards to social responsibility and impact.

If you are looking to revamp your wardrobe and do a good deed at the same time, I recommend checking out Shabby Apple's (www.shabbyapple.com) website and supporting local designers as well as women abroad. Shopping at Shabby Apple is definitely a great way to multi-task. Your closet, emerging designers and woman in need will thank you for it. An apple a day keeps the frumpy away!

